

BARON WITTE IS STILL HOPEFUL

Russian Envoy Denies With Emphasis That He Predicted Failure For Conference.

THE KOREA QUESTION TAKEN UP

New York Bankers Are On Their Way To Portsmouth
To Consult With The Representatives Of The Czar.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-MORRIS.)

Portsmouth, Aug. 14.—Baron Witte is not nearly as pessimistic as to the ultimate result of the peace conference as are many newspapers and some members of his suite. "It is a lie," he declared with great emphasis, when told that he had been quoted as having expressed a belief that there would be no peace and that he had no real wish for it.

Korea Bone of Contention

Portsmouth, Aug. 14.—After a day devoted to rest the Russians and Japanese this morning at nine-thirty proceeded immediately to business. In the discussion the Japanese proposal of a protectorate over Korea, begun on Saturday, was resumed. Both Russians and Japanese had drafted their propositions and their discussion this morning immediately opened on comparing these two papers, with the idea of so framing the terminology as to meet the wishes of the two parties. It is understood there will not be much difficulty in reaching a satisfactory conclusion on the Korea subject, as both Russia and Japan are in a unit on the general proposition of Japan's commercial and political preponderance there.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 14.—Lunitch telegraphs under the date of the thirteenth that the Japanese made an attack upon the Russians along the Mandchuria road at Jandjin pass, but were repulsed.

Article One Agreed Upon
Portsmouth, Aug. 14.—Article One of the peace treaty was agreed to at one o'clock and the conference adjourned until three, when the second article will be taken up for consideration. This means that the Russian-Japanese envoys have been able to so phrase the protocol regarding the recognition Japanese predominance in Korea and the establishment of a Japanese protectorate over that country as to satisfy both governments.

Plenty of Cash for Peace
Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 14.—Jacob H. Schiff of New York, representing Kuhn, Loeb & Co., accompanied by Messrs. Straus and Seligman of J. and W. Seligman and Co. to Portsmouth to confer with the Russians. The visit of Mr. Schiff at this time is of great importance and has a direct bearing upon the peace negotiations.

Or the two cablegrams sent by Mr. Witte immediately after he received the terms of the Japanese, one to the Rothschilds and on to the banking house in Antwerp, the one to Antwerp referred to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. This great financial house is called in for one of two things. Either the Russians want to raise money to pay an indemnity or they want to discuss the probabilities of getting money with which to continue the war.

Money for War Is Scarce.
The chances of getting money to continue the war are remote, as Russia's credit is badly impaired—for war purposes. It is most likely that Mr. Schiff is coming here to talk with the Russians about money for peace and has coming adds to the opinion that the conference will produce a treaty.

MUST FIRST HOUSE THIRTY THOUSAND

Chairman Shonts Returns From Isthmus of Panama and Tells What Needs To Be Done.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-MORRIS.)

New York, Aug. 14.—T. P. Shonts, chairman of the Panama commission, and Gen. Ernst, a member of that body, returned from the isthmus today. Shonts said that he had found that the first important thing was provision for the housing of thirty thousand men. He had also discovered that the laborers were not being promptly paid and matters were becoming congested on the railways and steamers. Supplies for living would soon be exhausted with a consequent rise in the price. Tropical conditions of delay prevail. Shonts says, nevertheless, things are in a better condition than anticipated and will be greatly improved as soon as the new ideas can be carried into effect.

Typographical Union Convention.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—The annual convention of the International Typographical Union opened here today, with delegates present from all parts of the United States and Canada. Important business will be transacted, including final arrangements for carrying into effect the eight-hour day January 1, next in all printing offices in the United States and Canada.

Buy it in Janesville.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have had a man here for some time. He has been interviewing everybody he could get to and has been making a tender of money for peace. The coming of Schiff, Straus and Seligman, the great forces in the Kuhn-Loeb combination, makes it appear that the Russians are now in a position to do some bargaining for the money they will surely have to pay if they make peace.

Cash Rules Negotiations.

More than the casual observer realizes, the settlement of this war is a commercial proposition. It is not honor, patriotism, humanity, but money—cash—that is dictating. Sergius Witte, by his system of foreign loans and his national banks, holds the credit of Russia in the palm of his hand. That credit, now impaired for war purposes, is excellent to procure peace. Witte knows this. He knows Russia must have money. He knows that to get this peace he must pay money.

He cannot get money for war. The great banking houses of the world are increasing their reserves. Peace is expected in every financial center. That is the strongest reason why peace is expected here.

Russian Concoct May Block Action.

A student of the Russians who has lived among them for years said:

"It is not this or that country on earth that Russia is treating with Japan there would be no doubt about peace. The Russians are different. They are childlike in matters of this kind. They think Russia is the greatest country on earth. They do not acknowledge that they have been whipped. Their lack of appreciation of the exact conditions makes it possible that they will stand on their alleged national honor and continue the war at a cost of $1,000,000 or more a day instead of paying a reasonable sum to Japan to end it."

M. Witte is almost fanatical—for publication on this point. Professor Martens, the Russian international law expert, says, with a sad shake of his head, that the negotiations must close when the indemnity clause is reached. The other Russians express themselves in a similar manner. Still, Mr. Schiff is coming here and he is not coming to talk about the peace negotiations. He is coming to talk about money—money for Russia—money to end the war.

May Agree on Terms.
The war may not end. Witte may decide it is cheaper to continue to fight than to pay what Japan may want. He may think it better to "shed the blood of 100,000 men" to take Sakhalin island, barren, desolate and of no particular importance to Russia.

There are shrewd observers here who think the negotiations will end as soon as the indemnity or cession clause is reached. The general feeling, however, in view of M. Witte's statement that the negotiations would last twenty-four days, is that there will ultimately be a treaty.

Runaway Yesterday: About seven o'clock last evening a horse driven by Thomas Cestigan slipped and fell getting one of the thills of his legs. After the animal had been unharnessed and men were at work harnessing it again it broke away and ran nearly the whole length of Milwaukee street, slipping and falling again on the Corn Exchange square. No damage was done.

sengers on the Canadian

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-MORRIS.)

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 14.—A Spencer's Bridge special dispatch says that a score of Indians were buried alive a half mile west of there by a landslide, before the very eyes of a hundred passengers on a Canadian Pacific train. The natives went under a large portion of a mountain on the north side of the Thompson river and slipped down into the stream. A few bodies that were shockingly mangled were found on the edge of the landslide, but most of the victims were buried forty feet deep.

NEW TEXAS BANKING LAW NOW IN EFFECT

Affords People Protection Against Wildcat Institutions and Corporations.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Austin, Texas, Aug. 14.—The new state banking law, authorizing the creation of trust, security, fidelity, and guarantee companies, giving them extensive and valuable powers, went into effect today. The law provides that corporations created under its provisions shall not be authorized to engage in business at more than one place. It is provided that the capital stock of the state banks shall not be less than $10,000 in towns having less than 2,500 inhabitants, nor less than $25,000 in towns having more than 2,500 inhabitants and less than $50,000 in cities of 10,000 inhabitants or more, nor less than $100,000 in cities of 20,000 inhabitants or more. Provision is also made for the creation of savings banks, whose capital stock shall not be less than $10,000, the amount being graded according to the population of the city in which the institution is located. One of the attractive features of the new law is the provision which permits state banks to make loans on real estate. It is expected that this will lead to cheaper money throughout the state. Arrangements are being made for the establishment of a large number of state banks in different towns and cities of the state as soon as the law becomes operative. Many private banking institutions are preparing to change themselves into state banks. The law contains many safeguards and restrictions which are believed to afford the people protection against "wildcat" institutions. All banks and other corporations created under the new law will be under direct supervision of a state banking superintendent.

WILL FRANCE GET HANKOW RAILROAD?

Rumored in Paris That French Capitalists Will Soon Secure Control of Line.

Paris, Aug. 14.—Information received here within the past few days tells of the partial success of French capitalists at Peking who are making every effort to obtain the concession for construction of the Canton-Hankow railway, for the surrender of which China has offered to pay the China-American Development company, an American corporation, $7,000,000. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, who controls the majority of the stock in the China-American Development company, has agreed to sell back the concession for that sum. The Belgian stockholders, of whom the most prominent is King Leopold, are opposed to the surrender. It is said that commercial circles in the city are trying to bring about the nullification of the concessions held by the China-American company, but also to protect an agreement that the concession will be sold to French interests immediately when China has bought it back from Mr. Morgan. Another report from the United States says that China proposes to complete this railway without foreign assistance.

MAY FORCE WOMAN TO GIVE DETAILS

Cotton Crop Scandal Promises to Be Sensational, With Effort to Compel Witness to Testify.

Washington, Aug. 14.—There will be important development during this week in the cotton crop scandal, as the grand jury resumes its sittings on Tuesday and a large number of witnesses have been cited to appear. Mrs. Peckham, the wife of Peckham, who is involved in the scandal, and who is the person referred to by Secretary Wilson when he declared that the scandals in the agricultural department were caused by a quarrel between two stock gamblers over a woman, will appear before the grand jury.

Mrs. Peckham will be questioned closely and an attempt will be made to force her to tell all she knows about the sale of advance information from the cotton crop reports and the bribery by former Associate Statisticians Holmes of other employees of the statistical bureau, as indicated by United States Attorney Beach, who is conducting the case against those who have brought discredit upon the department.

Mrs. Peckham is defiant and threatens to sue Secretary Wilson for libel on account of the allusions made to her. It is anticipated that she will prove an unwilling witness and may refuse to answer questions. If she adopts the same course pursued by Haas it will cause further delay in the prosecution, as the government has as yet been unable to get any evidence from former Statistician Hyde and his associate, Holmes, both of whom are out of the country.

INCREASE SHOWN IN THE EXPORTS

Foreign Trade From The United States For Fiscal Year Made A New Record.

JAPAN ONE OF OUR BIG BUYERS

Business With The Island Empire Shows Remarkable
Growth In Several Lines--Likes
American Locomotives.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-MORRIS.)

Washington, Aug. 14.—Exports of manufactured goods for the United States in the fiscal year just ended amounted to $543,620,297, as against $462,415,921 in the preceding year, $423,851,756 in 1900, and $183,395,743 in 1895 of manufactures.

The exports for the year were not only the largest on record, but are in excess of the combined exports of all articles in the centennial year 1876, and nearly $140,000,000 more than the total imports and exports of the country at the close of the civil war.

Iron and steel manufactures supply about one-fourth of the total exports, having been $134,727,921, as against $111,918,586 in the preceding year. Steel rails showed an increase of $6,000,000, chiefly in shipments to Canada, South America, Mexico, the West Indies, Japan, and other oriental countries. Machinery also showed an increase in 1905 of more than $6,000,000 over 1904.

Big Trade With Japan.

A conspicuous feature is the large increase in exports of locomotives to Japan, 151 engines having been sent thither in 1905, as against seventy-four in the previous year. Mexico and Argentina increased their purchases of American sewing machines, while Japan increased her purchases of electrical machinery and builders' material, each in a substantial degree.

Copper manufactures take second rank, with a total valuation of $88,225,291 in 1905, as compared with $57,142,081. There was an increase of $10,000,000 in the copper exports to China.

There was an increase in the exportation of mineral oils—the third article in importance—of over 200,000,000 gallons, but owing to a fall in price the value remained practically stationary. The oil export for 1905 was $51,000,000 gallons, as against $47,000,000 gallons. The value for 1905 was $71,888,317 and for 1904 was $71,753,552. To Great Britain and Ireland 221,000,000 gallons were sent, to Germany 147,000,000, and to the Netherlands 117,000,000. Only 55,000,000 gallons were exported to South America.

Cotton manufacturers present one of the striking features of the year's export, having advanced from $22,403,713 in 1904 to $40,600,080 in the year just ended. The growth occurred chiefly in cotton cloth exports, $14,696,199 being the total in 1904 and $41,420,542 the figure in 1905. To China there was an increase of about 400,000,000 yards over last year's exportation of 76.9 millions, and the values of our cotton cloth exports to that country increased from $4,000,000 in 1904 to $27,750,000 in 1905. Japan was the only other country to show a considerable increase, the total being 16,000,000 yards, as against 440,000 yards in 1904.

Big Increase in Leather.

Leather and its manufactures, fourth in importance in the list of manufactured articles exported, showed an increase of $4,000,000, the total in 1905 having been $39,000,000, as compared with $34,000,000 in the preceding year. In this class also Japan is credited with the chief increase.

Other important articles exported were: Agricultural implements, $20,750,000; chemicals, drugs, dyes, etc., nearly $16,000,000; wood manufactures $12,500,000; cars, carriages and vehicles, $10,600,000; scientific instruments, $8,000,000; paper and manufactures of $8,250,000; paraffin and paraffin wax, $7,750,000; fiber manufactures, $6,750,000; tobacco manufactures, $5,666,000; books, maps, etc., nearly $5,000,000; and India rubber manufactures, $4,750,000.

He took strong ground in favor of woman's suffrage and predicted that the nation might yet have a woman as president.

As a result of the trial of fifty-three mutineers of the training ship Pruthi at Annapolis, fifteen have been acquitted, four condemned to be shot, three sentenced to penal servitude for life, and the remainder to various shorter terms. The court recommended that two of the death sentences be commuted to penal servitude for life, and the two others to ten years' imprisonment.

EVEN IF ARSENIC IS AN ENEMY TO FEVER

Physicians Will Probably Refuse to Aid St. Paul Specialist in Making a Test of the Theory.

New Orleans, August 14.—Arsenic as a preventive of yellow fever will be given a thorough test by Dr. Reginald B. Leach, a St. Paul specialist. The doctor, who for some time has been taking arsenic pills, will invade the most infected district of the city and allow himself to be bitten by the miasmatic mosquito, and will then return to his hotel to await results.

Dr. Leach will make the experiment on his own responsibility. He came here some days ago and tried to interest the New Orleans Medical Society in the treatment, asking that a committee of that body be appointed to conduct the experiment and watch the test day by day. The members however voted against lending their countenance to the affair, declaring their disbelief in Dr. Leach's theory.

Want Physicians to Assist.

"I wanted a physician or committee of physicians to conduct this experiment," said Dr. Leach. "Prominent citizens would gladly serve, but the public would not have the same faith in the result as it would if the committee was made up of prominent physicians of the city. However, as they will not act, it is urged that I proceed with the test and have laymen fill their places."

"I am surprised that this reception should have been given me by the medical fraternity of New Orleans. I had expected a cordial reception and at least friendly co-operation. This act of the medical society was wholly unexpected and I am more than surprised. Citizens who have called on me express the same opinion. I cannot account for it."

Mayor Martin Behman, Colonel John P. Sullivan and Edward H. Richter called on Dr. Leach. They want to see the experiment carried out. A third or more of the New Orleans people are taking Leach's arsenic pills and they would like to have a practical test to show the virtue of the pellets.

If they will ward off the fever the drug stores will not be able to supply the demand for them. Many prominent residents visited the doctor to express their sympathy at his rejection by the medical society and to assure him that the people were greatly interested in his theory. The fever experts, however, almost to a man, reject the arsenic theory and tell their patients that Dr. Leach's pills are no more efficacious than so much flour and water.

ON BURRO TRIP TO PIKE'S PEAK

FRED EHRLINGER TELLS OF THE MARVELOUS SCENERY.

A CITY WITHOUT A TREE

Cripple Creek's 10,000 Inhabitants
Get Along Without Foliage—Queer
Rocks in Garden of Gods.

(By G. F. B.)
Manitou, Colo., Aug. 10.—Manitou, the mecca of travelers who come to enjoy Colorado scenery, is overrun by visitors this season. With its innumerable mountain trips, beautiful summer climate and mineral springs it is an ideal spot for the vacationist as well as the invalid. There are three varieties of mineral springs—iron, soda and sulphur. These springs are constantly surrounded by people, who receive great benefit from the water.

No Springs at Colorado Springs.
It would naturally be thought that Colorado Springs, would contain springs, judging from the name, but this however, is not the case. All the valuable mineral springs are located at Manitou, which city is five miles west of Colorado Springs. The mineral waters are free to the public.

The Ambition of the Tourist.
No matter how much time the tourist has to spend in Manitou, he invariably takes the trip up Pike's Peak. Hundreds of people daily take in this wonderful scenic mountain which towers 14,147 feet over sea level. The majority go on the cog-rail, which can be made up and back in four hours. About twenty in a party, daily, climb to the peak on burros. This is a very strenuous journey, but offers a better way of enjoying the scenery and also many other attractions. To travel by burro requires about twenty-four hours and is partly in the night time. The usual way is to leave Manitou about three o'clock in the afternoon and climb about half way up by eight o'clock. Then lunch is had and the traveler wraps himself in a blanket beside the campfire for a few hours' sleep. About midnight the party starts again, so as to reach the summit before sunrise, which is a scene never to be forgotten. In the course of an hour or two the party starts on the downward trail, reaching Manitou about two o'clock in the afternoon.

Rich Gold Mining District.
Another beautiful trip is to Cripple Creek and Victor, which is by rail. In the neighborhood of these cities are the rich gold mines. The traveler is given an opportunity to go in certain shafts for the purpose of seeing the mines in operation. The city of Cripple Creek, which is said to have a population of 10,000, is said to be the only city of its size in the world without a tree. The high altitude, which is 9,505 feet, is responsible for this. Manitou has an elevation of 6,676 feet.

The Garden of the Gods.
"The Garden of the Gods" is but a short distance from the city and is generally investigated by carriage, although some use burros, while others walk. In it are many rocks which bear resemblance to creatures or are otherwise a novelty. At the entrance is seen the large balanced rock. Some of the rocks, which resemble named from what they bear resemblance to, are: "The Slender Twins," "Punch and Judy," several animals such as the elephant, seal, bear and buffalo, "The Kissing Camels," "Toad Stools," "Cathedral Spires," and others. Some are easily distinguished, while in the case of others, one is called upon to "stretch" the imagination to a great extent.

Many Other Mountain Journeys.
The South and North Cheyenne canyons are reached by trolley cars from Colorado Springs. The South Cheyenne canyon terminates with the widely known "Seven Falls." "The Pillar of Hercules" is also in this deep gorge with high, rock sides. "Williams Canyon," "Ute Pass," "The Cave of the Winds," "Rainbow Falls," and the "Cascade" are also beautiful scenic journeys in the mountains.

Some Are Overcome by Light Air.
Now and then are seen persons who attempt to reach the higher altitudes and are overcome for certain physical reasons. Tuesday last a lady was overcome on the Cripple Creek "Short Line" route and remained unconscious until brought back to Colorado Springs. The body appeared very rigid, somewhat like that of a drowned person. Others are taken with a severe nose-bleed and receive no relief until a lower altitude is reached.

MADISON SPORTSMEN ON ALONZO'S TRAIL

Report Received That He is Trying to Lure Crack Lake Geneva Athlete from Wisconsin with a Bonus.

(Special Correspondence.)
Madison, Wis., August 14.—An alleged offer of $800 by Athletic Director A. Stagg of the University of Chicago to induce a star athlete from Lake Geneva, Wis., to enter his school and represent the Rocketteller institution in track and field contests is the substance of a report that is being investigated by Madison people. Letters have come from Lake Geneva to the effect that Professor Stagg offered Merriam, the young interscholastic star of that place, $800 to enter Chicago. The report is common knowledge at Lake Geneva, it having been freely discussed there and published in a local paper. The athletic authorities here are not acting in the matter and the investigation is being made by Lake Geneva people who now reside here and who sometimes ago declared their ability of "attracting" Merriam to Madison. The information available is meagre and does not specify whether the offer was of a position bearing a salary of $800 or was actually a cash offer. Should it transpire that the proposal was the assurance of a paying position, similar to the numerous places with which Wisconsin football players were supplied in the statehouse last year, it is doubtful if even a remonstrance will be made officially. This practice has fallen into disrepute here since the "clean athletics" epidemic has been prevalent, but the Wisconsin university authorities are disinclined to play the role of accusers. Just now the most honored cry at Madison is for the development of such an athletic general as Stagg. Merriam went away with a goodly number of points at the 1905 interscholastic meet in Chicago under the direction of Director Stagg, but the Badgers had fairly counted upon having him here the coming year.

BURGLAR FIRED AT PURSUING OFFICERS

Patrolman Fanning Opened on Him with Machine Gun Saturday Night—
Routed from Wilson Lane's Home.

About eleven o'clock Saturday night Mrs. Carl Lecher, who resides in the Tuckwood flats, noticed a man prowling about the corner of Dodge and South Jackson streets and peering in the windows. When her husband came home a short time thereafter she informed him of the circumstance and he at once got into communication with the police. Officers Brown and Fanning hastened to the scene by different routes. Just as they arrived at the premises a man emerged from the shadows and crossed over to the Congregational church. A few moments were lost in looking him up and identifying him as a harmless citizen who had chanced to be in the vicinity. The woodshed door was found to be ajar and while Officer Brown stationed himself nearby, Officer Fanning went back to examine the carriage shed so as to prevent the burglar from escaping, in case he had left the house and was in hiding thereabouts. Presently Officer Brown saw a straw hat appear above the fence near the barn and moved a few yards in that direction. The wearer of the hat later proved to be Carl Lecher. As Brown moved to ward him he suddenly saw Fanning spring from the vicinity of the carriage shed and turning beheld the burglar, who had issued from the woodshed door, hotfooting for the side gate opening onto Dodge street. Fanning crossed Brown's path at an angle and took the lead in the pursuit. As the burglar plunged through the gateway he closed the portal behind him and several seconds were lost in opening it again. Cutting across Dodge street the patrolmen were soon in close pursuit of the fugitive. As quarry on South Jackson street, the burglar reached a point opposite the billboard near the Baptist church and he wheeled, flashed a revolver and took one shot at his pursuers on him with his machine-gun, firing three shots. Two of his cartridges failed to respond to the hammer. At the first shot the burglar recovered himself and continued down South Jackson street. He was making good time in the sprinting game and the officers were slowly losing ground. At the intersection of Center Jackson street the burglar turned eastward and at this point the officers reached the intersection. He was nowhere to be seen. Jules Levy, who was sitting on a porch along the line of pursuit, got a fairly good view of the burglar. The man was short of stature and wore a black stiff hat. Mr. and Mrs. Lane were awakened until the excitement was over. Nothing had been taken from the house. The burglar was evidently interrupted while "feeling his way" in the house.

PARIS FASHION NOTES.

The chiffon hat is having its inning now; and to chronicle this fact does not imply that this particular style of headgear has not been fashionable throughout the season, but merely that it has been compelled to share its popularity with the dainty straws and chips whose usefulness will soon be at an end. Certainly no millinery fabric is so perpetual in its appropriateness, for chiffon is as common in fast in January as in August. Then women who take advantage of end-season bargains to get beautiful designs find themselves supplied with an evening hat until the winter season is well advanced, for it is never safe to invest in the real winter chapeau until December when the styles are positively settled.

The fact that chiffon lends itself to endless shapes and modes of trimming has also increased its vogue. This fact is exemplified in an odd and French hat of white chiffon, with a low crown, lowering at the back, down slightly in the front and well over to the left side. A wreath of shaded pink roses and buds, with mottled leaves extends across the front of the hat, close to the crown and along the sides and up in straight lines over the turned-forward back brim, where at the brim's rim they end. The cachepeigne at the back is formed of white tulle and a little narrow pink velvet ribbon arranged in loops and a very few roses. The white tulle covers the bandeau and is laid in plait as a facing to the under brim; the wire under the brim's edge is covered with white velvet, the chiffon extending over it in plaited ruche effect.

Small bows, tied very tight, seem a favorite trimming for the back of upturned hats and the loops nearest the edge of the brim are caught down secretly while those nestling against the hair are allowed to fall loose. The Louis Quinze hats, variously known as Watteau, Marquis, tricornes, etc., retain their popularity to a marked extent, and a majority of the prettiest simple hats now exhibited in the ateliers of the rue de la Paix are in some of these shapes. In original lines they differ from the milliner, and are covered with shirred tulle or chiffon.

Green plays an important part in the history of the chiffon hat. A strikingly smart design is an amazon shape, but with wider crown and brim than the old-time amazon—the brims of the latest models seem to be growing more expansive. The crown is long and low, the brim being quite wide at the sides and rolled decidedly upward. Starting from the front of the hat and in the center in plain quilt effect is an immensely long and wide ostrich plume in a brighter, but still dull shade of green. This plume entirely conceals the top of the crown and extends out over the back and trails down nearly to the base of the neck. The plume is so wide and heavy as to give the effect of several superimposed feathers.

The plate and saucer shapes, small, flat of crown, round and tipped forward at an absurd angle, being built up behind with flowers or ostrich tips are tremendously successful in Paris and one sees charming models in the ultra-smart restaurants where that portion of society which flits back and forth to town delights to dine.

The French woman's exactness in matters of dress is proverbial, but it is in the art of fitting a hat to the individual head and coiffure that she excels. It is well, for never was this art more needed than this season. The average woman, especially so of the bargain craze, is too likely to pick up a ready-made hat, try it on and if it looks fairly well from the front, buy it and wear it for the sake of economy; not so in Paris. French milliners teach their customers to have adjusted barettes or cap-like bandeaux in the small hats and these are fitted so carefully to the wearers' head that they effect the absurd angle and hold the hat safely in its place.

As a matter of course, veils match the hats, and when, in the case of fine straws, two colors are seen in the hat, two veils are worn. It is a capricious fashion, but an extremely smart one.

SATURDAY'S STORM SEVERE TO SOUTH

Downpour in Rockford Heaviest Ever Seen—Beloit in the Area, But Janesville Escaped.

Janesville escaped a heavy rain-storm which overtook Beloit about 4:30 Saturday afternoon and raged with severe electrical disturbances in northern Illinois for several hours. At Rockford the rain fell in torrents for over an hour and the water reached the top of the curbing on the business streets. The Court street Methodist church, the Blake school, the Soper greenhouse and several residences were struck by lightning, but the heavy rainfall prevented any large loss by fire. The downpour was the heaviest ever seen in the Forest City. The entire street car system was tied up for an hour on account of the electrical disturbances and three of the interurban cars which run out of the city on local power were obliged to remain anchored on the tracks. Beloit escaped any serious damage.

James Sullivan, leading man in "The Holy City" company, which showed here Monday, Aug. 7, had a dispute with the manager of the company at Rockford Thursday evening. Sullivan struck him a blow which felled him. There was considerable excitement and for a time it looked as if Sullivan would seriously injure the manager, and a call was sent for the police. When Assistant Chief Little arrived, however, the belligerents had settled their dispute, which was over some back salary due to Sullivan and no arrests were made.

IRELAND TODAY BY J. SHERIDAN

JANESVILLE MAN WRITES OF THE NEW REGIME.

There Is No More Lifting of Hats to the Fast Disappearing Landlord
Class—Crops Good This Year.

From James Sheridan of this city, who is making an extended visit in the Emerald Isle, the following very interesting letter has been received: Scofield Lodge, Sligo, Aug. 2.

Editor, Janesville Gazette:—I thought a good many readers of the Gazette would like to know about the present conditions in Ireland. I have traveled over a good deal of the country and made inquiries of the rich and poor and they all say there is a wonderful improvement in the last twenty years. In the first place this is an exceptionally good year. I never looked at better crops. The potato crop is splendid and the winter supply of fuel is all in ricks in the gardens. It was a very dry summer.

Getting Rid of Landlords.
In regard to the landlords—The greater part of them have sold their estates to the government and the tenants pay their rent in the bank twice a year. They are to pay for a term of sixty-eight years, after which time there is no more rent to pay. In the meantime, if they have the money, they can buy outright and any man can sell his interest in his place at any time. Land brings as much per acre as it does in Rock county—about $100—and the landlords who have not sold to the government cannot put a tenant out if he pays his rent. Not even the government can touch him. The rent has been reduced very much. Still it is too high. Land rents for from four to ten dollars per acre according to the quality. Some of it can be had for less than four dollars. The landlords seem to be more friendly with the people. There is no more lifting of hats to them now.

Peaches, Grapes and Flowers.
I had the pleasure of calling on Mr. Phibbs, a large owner, and he treated me very courteously and showed me all through his domain. He showed me the largest peaches growing that I have ever seen—also grapes and flowers in profusion—and has asked me to call again before I leave for home. He asked me a good many questions about America. I am stopping at present at what is considered the healthiest place in Ireland. It is four miles from Sligo. People come from all parts of Ireland every summer. They claim to find cures for all diseases in the baths. The men bathe in the sea twice every day and the women have another bathing place about half a mile distant.

Sails On the 18th.
I hope I have not intruded too much on your valuable space. I receive copies of the Gazette every few days and it gives me great pleasure to get the news from home. I will suit for home on the 18th. I am Yours very truly,
JAMES SHERIDAN.

COMING Attractions . . . .

Tomorrow Night's Attraction.

Concerning the attraction which comes to the Myers theatre tomorrow evening, the Indianapolis News of Tuesday, August 1, makes the following comment:

"Every seat was taken, people were standing up four deep behind the last row of seats, and a throng of people were turned away. The attraction was a worthy one, a melodrama, 'As Told in the Hills,' written by C. E. Senn and interpreted by a well-known and experienced company of actors. The play deals with the life in the great West and with the fortunes of Pannema, an Indian maiden, who has been adopted by a family of emigrants, and who is loved by all who know her. There is a villain, one Jack Reines, who tries to win her, but all his meanness is checked by the loyalty and bravery of Little Fox, a Comanche chief, who is in love with her. Pannema has a girl friend, a dashing young southerner, Texas Howard, whose love affairs help to make the play interesting. There are strenuous moments in the drama, fights with pistols, hold-ups with rifles and plenty of excitement, but this is more than offset by the excellent comedy which is everywhere in evidence. Miss Emily Gale as Pannema bears out the reputation as a clever tragedienne."

actress she won with 'The Moonshiner's Daughter' she acts with reserve and dignity, and the part suits her abilities very well. Gus Neville as Little Fox is very good in the serious parts of the play, and unlike the many actors who try to portray the character of an Indian on the stage he neither overdoes the dignity nor lowers the part to one of low comedy. Texas Howard was well played by Miss Burd Bartram, who introduced a clever 'coon skit' specially in the play. The Lib-Dexter of Miss Russell, the McIntosh Todd, the tramp of Jack West, the Jack Reines of Louis E. Ramsdell and the dandy part of Napoleon Johnson by William Belts were all worthy of commendation. The comedy of Mr. Belts kept the piece alive, and the specialties by Jack West were a feature of the show.

Forty Years Ago.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, August 14, 1865.—The 16th Regiment.

We understand that the veterans of the 16th regiment will receive their final payment on the 18th of August in Madison. This will be good news to the noble men.

A Handsome Picture.—Those who like to look at a handsome picture will be attracted by a handsome lithograph in the postoffice, representing the Fireman's Tournament at Manchester, N. H., in September, 1855. It was a present from Chief Engineer Harris of Chicago, to Mr. J. C. Spencer of this city.

Select School.—The notice of Mrs. Robinson's school, handed in several days ago, has been mislaid or lost, and we can only give notice that her school will begin again Monday, September 4th, at the rooms on Main St., formerly occupied by her. Having lost the notice we cannot give the terms.

Generous Offer.—We are requested by Mr. Wm. Murdock to say that if there are families in the city, any members of which are sick, who are in such straitened circumstances that they are unable to buy medicine, he will supply their needs in this direction, gratis. This is a generous offer.

and will undoubtedly result in alleviating a great deal of suffering.

Notice of Election of the Directors of the Janesville Manufacturing Company.—It really looks as though our business men intended to go forward in earnest in the good work of putting in operation a heavy manufacturing establishment. The day that sees consummated such an enterprise, will be the brightest Janesville ever saw. The notice bearing upon this subject is in another column.

The Fire Steamer Milwaukee.—We have been shown a communication from Chief Engineer Buehling of Milwaukee, to the Secretary of the State Fireman's Association, in which he states positively that the fire steamer Milwaukee will be in attendance at the tournament soon to be held here. This, we take it, is conclusive on this point, any statements to the contrary notwithstanding.

A New Style of Jewelry.—At the store of Messrs. Webb & Co., we have seen a new style of jewelry, consisting of silver coins, of various denominations polished on one side and with an India letter engraved in the center. The reverse bears the original device of the coin and has a pin attached thereto for fastening it to the wearing apparel. A very neat ornement useful, and a practice which may hand down to posterity the image and the superscription of what used to pass in this country for money.

Public School Notice.—The next term of the Public schools of the city of Janesville, will commence on Monday, August 21st, 1865.

The examination of teachers will begin on Saturday, August 19th, 1865, at 10 o'clock, and applicants to teach in our public schools are requested to be present punctually at the time above designated. This term will continue sixteen weeks without vacation. Pupils from outside of the city will be admitted at the usual rates, so far as we have accommodations.

By order of the Board of Education. A. S. JONES, Clerk of the Board.

"I owe my whole life to Burdock Blood Bitters. Scrofulous sores covered my body. I seemed beyond cure. B. B. B. has made me a perfectly well woman." Mrs. Charles Hutton, Ber-ville, Mich.

A household necessity, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Heals burns, cuts, wounds of any sort; cures sore throat, croup, catarrh, asthma; never fails.

Years of suffering relieved in a night. Itching piles yield at once to the curative properties of Doan's Ointment. Never fails. At any drugstore, 50 cents.

For forty years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been curing summer complaint, dysentery, diarrhoea, bloody flux, pain in the stomach, and it has never yet failed to do everything claimed for it.

RHEUMATISM COMMON IN SUMMER

The time to get rid of Rheumatism is in Summer while the blood is endeavoring to purge itself of all poisons and impurities, and the skin is active, with all the pores and glands open and able, in this way, to assist in the elimination.

Columbus, O., 1855 Mt. Vernon, Ave. Six years ago I had a severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism, and the doctor told me to get rid of it by using S. S. S. I tried every medicine and nothing helped me. Finally I left off my medicine and began the use of S. S. S. My knees and elbow joints were swollen terribly, and at one time my hands were so swollen and painful that I could not close them when opened. I was getting discouraged, you may be sure, when I began S. S. S. but as I saw it was helping me I continued it, and today I am a sound, well man and have never had a return of the disease. R. H. CHAPMAN.

The inactivity of the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels causes the refuse matter to remain in the system, which, coming in contact with the different acids of the body, forms uric acid to be absorbed by the blood and muscles, producing the pains, inflammation and other distressing symptoms of Rheumatism. The wandering pains of the disease remind the sufferer that the poison is still in the blood and he should lose no time in getting it out. S. S. S. neutralizes the acid and makes the blood rich and pure. It tones up every organ and cures the disease permanently. S. S. S. contains no harmful minerals to disagreeably affect the system, but while curing the disease builds up the system, and is a tonic effect. THE CHINESE BOYCOTT.
The Chinese boycott is assuming proportions, and back of it are 3,000 intelligent Chinese students who recognize that American discrimination, to the extent of exclusion, is an outrage which should be abolished. The nation has been long suffering and the indignities heaped upon it could no longer be endured. Young men, who have adopted the Christian faith, and who desired to be educated in American colleges, were not permitted to land on American soil, and travelers were compelled to give our shores a wide berth. China submitted until endurance ceased to be a virtue, and now proposes to enforce decent treatment by a boycott on American goods. The concessions demanded, through Wu Ting Fang, Vice-President of the Chinese Board of Foreign Affairs, and former minister to the United States, are not unreasonable and should be granted at the coming session of congress. One is that Chinese, who are not coolies, shall be treated fairly and courteously, when visiting the United States. This demand is so reasonable that the President has already issued orders that it be observed, depending on congress to ratify his action. The coolie represents the masses and the cheap labor of China. Sentiment in this country is strong against this class, the argument being used that free admission to this country would be a menace to American labor. There is a good deal of nonsense about this sentiment, for the work to which the Chinaman is best adapted, is far in excess of the workmen in this country. America could find employment today for a million domestics, from the celestial empire, and American labor would be benefited by the new recruits. Every town and city in the land is destitute of this kind of service and conditions are growing worse every year. New industries employing an army of girls have sprung up all over the country during the past few years, and other avenues have been opened, so today the average girl who was formerly content to serve as a maid or cook, finds more congenial employment at better wages. While Germany, Norway, Sweden and Ireland formerly supplied these ranks with many new recruits, that day has largely passed. The girls continue to come from these countries but they are not long content with domestic service. China is asking nothing for her laboring classes, but the fact remains that many of them could be employed to advantage in this country. The other concession demanded is unrestricted admission of Chinese laborers to Hawaii and the Philippines. So far as Hawaii is concerned the great sugar industry of the island was largely developed by Chinese labor, and no good reason appears why the exclusion act should apply. The Philippine question may present objectionable features along the line of civilization, but it hardly seems possible that a few Chinamen under American government, can contaminate the average native of Luzon. Congress will be asked to deal with these questions and if wise judgment prevails, better relations will exist between the two nations.

CONGRESSMAN COOPER.
The Governor's Milwaukee Organ takes exception to suggestions regarding Congressman Cooper and assumes that his only weakness is loyalty to La Follette. Mr. Cooper owes his seat in congress to Rock County. When elected the first time he asserted that two or three terms would satisfy his ambition, when he would be pleased to withdraw in favor of a Rock County man, but fourteen years has failed to satisfy. The republicans of the county as well as a large contingency throughout the district, believe that the time has come when some other man should be honored, and they also believe that this can be done without detriment to the service. Malcolm G. Jeffris has been considered as an available candidate for the past ten years, and long before there was any split in the ranks of the party. He possesses in rare degree the ability for the responsible position, and his republicanism no man questions whose opinion is worth considering. Candidates will doubtless be presented from other counties in the district but Mr. Jeffris will develop strength sufficient to nominate him, in spite of game wardens, etc. The Governor of Florida is an enthusiast over the project to drain the Everglades, and redeem 5,000,000 acres of swamp land. The Everglades are practically on a sea level and drainage is impossible. Southern Florida has millions of acres of unoccupied land worth less than $2.50 per acre. It will be time to clear out the alligator swamps when these waste places are occupied. The lecture course had its day and the Chautauqua will have a similar experience. Too much of a good thing is always demoralizing and politics and religion don't always mix well. Mr. Pfister is discovering that he has a host of friends whose confidence is not shaken by sensational charges against his character. If Rockefeller donates $50,000,000 to the Chicago university, that institution will be swamped with "tainted money."

The metropolitan press is doing all it can to make Michael Sheel a hero. He is one of the best advertised men in the country. Let him alone and he will die a natural death.

PRESS COMMENT.
Chicago Record-Herald: It is Andrew Carnegie wishes to die poor and at the same time advance the cause of peace he might pay the indemnity demanded by Japan. Kansas City Star: An indignant St. Petersburg official says: "Mr. Sato seems to forget that Russia is a civilized nation." Well, what else can be expected when Russia forgets it so often herself? Bryan's Commoner: It will be too bad if Japan becomes seized of the notion that the soldiers of Russia are a type of white-skinned soldiers of the whole world—too bad for Japan. Exchange: Mary Manning has canceled her theatrical engagements in order to take care of her little baby. Mary will deserve all the advertising she can get on account of this extraordinary proceeding. Racine Journal: The eagerness to get claims has led one man to take up his position in front of the door of the Duluth land office six days in advance of the opening of the Fond du Lac reservation. Waupaca Post: Madison has started upon the erection of a $500,000 beet sugar plant. This ground has not yet been broken for the new hotel which the capitol city needs more than any other one thing. Chicago Inter Ocean: The story that Kansas farmers are becoming gouty and dyspeptic contains a useful moral. A mortgage on the farm may cause one more anxiety than money in the bank, but it is a great blood circulator, just the same. Green Bay Gazette: The city of Traverse will find more rock than are charred in Lake Michigan if she attempts to do a gambling business out of Wisconsin ports. Lieutenant Governor Davidson says the laws of the state are going to be enforced, which should be sufficient warning to gamblers. Evening Wisconsin: An Appleton man is bragging that he banks his money in his out-bin, which in his opinion is both fireproof and burglar-proof. The thief who eventually gets his "pile" should leave a note of thanks for the information. If he doesn't he will be extremely ungrateful. El Paso Herald: The papers are full of the names of men who get salaries bigger than that of the president of the United States or are alleged to get them. But it would be interesting if some of them could submit photographs of their monthly checks. Waupun Leader: Several state papers are publishing the item to the effect that Wisconsin is to lose the stop-over privileges on railroad tickets. This is said to be done so as not to conflict with the new railroad law. Will some one point out the particular provision that can be construed to prevent stop-over privileges? Chicago Tribune: Controller McGinn is looking sorrowfully at bills footing up $9,250, which the city must pay for meals furnished patrolmen during the teamsters' strike. As no meal cost more than 30 cents it is apparent that there were a great many dinners eaten by the patrolmen while the strike lasted. Milwaukee Daily News: A St. Paul dispatch sets forth that "a hanging which was to take place today for the entertainment of the delegates to the interstate sheriffs' convention could not take place owing to the suicide of the condemned." Some men are so thoughtless and inconsiderate of the pleasures of others! Madison Democrat: Those teamsters, who provide their horses with nets and other means of protection from other pestering flies or the hot sun's rays merit the benison which wells up from the humane heart. "Man's best friend" deserves special consideration and kindness during the trying days of a torrid August. La Crosse Chronicle: The proposition for a conference of delegates from the various states to draft a uniform divorce law should receive the moral assistance of everybody who is interested in the uplifting of martial relations and the betterment of general morality. Laxity of di-voice has become almost, the national shame. Exchange: Camille Flammarion, the celebrated astronomer, proposes to introduce a bill into the French chamber of deputies to make compulsory a perpetual calendar of his own. This starts the year at the vernal equinox, March 21. Every quarter should contain months of thirty days and one month of thirty-one days. This would make 364 days. The same days of the week and one calendar would last a lifetime. Rockford Register-Gazette: Notwithstanding the big crops of wheat and corn in the United States it is evident that the grain trade is looking for good prices for the producers of these food staples. The future on both grains are running at the rate of more than 85 cents for wheat for delivery next May and above 45 cents for corn. Of late years the world's consumption of food has grown faster than the supply, so that the old days of a glut which embarrassed business and made unproductive years out of the very abundance of the land seem not likely to re-occur. The conditions of course point to the continued advance in prices of land. This Should "Hold 'Em." Winneconne Local: It makes a fellow feel exhausted to read the spew of those vacant-skulled nincompoops who inhabit the offices of the Chicago dailies and eternally try to get off something brilliant in ridicule of the home locals in the country newspapers. These butter-milk-brained non-composers think it mighty funny if they read in a country paper that H. T. Urnell has sold his Jersey cow to B. V. D. Dalemman. But of course the proper paper comes when they say in their dignified daily that Mrs. Audubon Gushwiller's Montague has just returned from the Madison Square bench show, where she purchased a pure strain Boston terrier. That's immense—that is! Mrs. Montague's Boston bull pup would bring about thirty cents in an average dog pound, while Urnell's cow would sell for $50 in the dark anywhere. They turn up their snufflers if a country paper mentions that Gus Perry and Sarah Bates enjoyed Friday evening at the Oshkosh opera house, but if Montgomery Ward, the society bellwether, and Cordella Adeline Sears-buck, the moneybag heiress, take some of their mogul friends to the theater the daily paper wobbleheads will call it a box party and slobber more than a half column about it besides displaying pictures of all in the bunch. A different emetic is not needed. The Brazen Free Press. Oshkosh Northwestern: The Milwaukee Free Press has suddenly become alarmed lest the grand jury investigation there shall be "dragged into politics." Humph! Is the Free Press brazen enough to claim that the tirade of abuse, vilification and innuendo it has heaped on some of the men who have been indicted, and who do not happen to belong to "our side" has not been influenced by purely political motives? If so how can it account for the frequent disparaging allusions made to the political connections of these men and its persistent efforts to show that the same crookedness that is charged in local dailies has operated in respect to political management affecting Governor La Follette? And what can it say for the very evident inclination on the part of some of the officials who are engaged in this investigation, supposedly impartial and without bias, to shield and protect some of the culprits because, apparently, they were accounted friends of "the cause," while no effort has been spared to direct suspicion to, and cast aspersions on opponents of the same? Undoubtedly there has been a lot of crookedness and rotten work in connection with the transactions of public business at Milwaukee, and the effort to ferret it out and purge official circles there of such damaging and dangerous practices is a most laudable one. At the same time some of the things that have happened in connection with the investigation have been enough to cause a well grounded suspicion on the part of the public that political animosity is one of the influences which is directing this movement. And the Free Press itself has contributed largely to this feeling by its unfair and prejudiced arguments and attitude.

REFORMS IN MANCHURIA
How Japanese Soldiers Are Waking Up the Chinese.
A SANITARY REGIME STARTED.
Streets Are Cleaned, Grounds Around the Houses Drained and Roads Kept in Order—Stray Dogs Killed. How Jap Soldiers Amuse Themselves in Idle Hours.
The old and the new, the civilization of the east and the west, Chinese and Japanese living together in the same town, the one calmly introducing systems and methods upon their reluctant temporary fellow townsmen. It is curious to see these two peoples so diametrically opposite to each other living, as they are living today, under Japanese martial law, says Stanley Washburn, the Chicago News correspondent, writing from General Nojima's headquarters in Manchuria. The Chinese are still scarcely awake to the new conditions which have suddenly swept into their towns, and it is with a sort of dazed wonder that they see Japanese activities being carried out on every side. The houses where their most prominent citizens lived a few weeks ago are now occupied by Japanese officers. Sentries guard every street. With mouths open in astonishment the calm and imperturbable Celestial sees a small army of Japanese soldiers at work in the streets digging ditches to carry off the rain, mending the roads, forcing upon them a scheme of sanitation, cleaning their wells, turning the pigs out of the main streets and requiring them to be placed in pens. Even the unhappy moth eaten Chinese dog has been struck in this wonderful era of reform. It is his habit to camp with his friends in the main streets, in the side streets, in the compounds (grounds around the houses), under the table, in the stable. In fact, his name is legion, and at every step one falls over this unhappy creature, the substitute for a modern garbage department. The Japanese cheerfully announced to their astonished wards that all dogs would be sentenced to death that were not properly tagged with the names of their owners about their necks. The Chinese were still discussing the meaning of this grave problem when the day of judgment came. The next rising sun brought desolation to many happy canine homes. Few dogs were to be seen in their customary haunts, but, ah, woe, in a compound up the street, was the explanation. Two hundred canine hides were visible drying in the sun. Now every dog is labeled. Schemes for social reforms, political reforms, taxes for keeping the roads in order and I know not how many more are going merrier forward, all in behalf of the Chinaman who finds himself being civilized before he knows it. Nearly every compound is now drained, and when it rains we actually walk in the streets instead of swimming, as we formerly did. If there ever was a people who carry their country with them it is certainly these same Japanese. In their idle hours the soldiers build Japanese gardens. Small artificial lakes are dug and bordered with stones. Little bamboo bridges are constructed and the quaint Japanese lanterns of stone are placed about in the garden, made from the flat stones picked up by the soldiers in the country about. In one of these gardens the soldiers of a company had built a summer house after the kind seen in Japan. Lattice-work was covered with greens and iris blossoms made of paper were strung on strings and dangled overhead. Indeed, in some of these places it is impossible to realize that one is in Manchuria and not back in Japan. In all the villages of evenings the soldiers play about in the streets like schoolboys. Their officers go among them in the way which makes their relation to their men unique in the armies of the world. When an officer appears, every soldier is on his feet and at rigid "attention," with his hand at salute. Then invariably comes the soft spoken word from the officer, and the military aspect fades from the soldiers' faces, and they crowd about him, laughing and telling him their troubles. The other night I walked through the main street of one of these villages with a couple of officers. During the walk we passed, I suppose, fifty soldiers, and there was scarcely one that went by way without a joke or a pleasant word from his superior. The result is that whenever they have the time or leisure from more rigorous duties the men fall to with a will and compete with each other in making their officers comfortable. It is in this way that nearly every officer has a little Japanese garden behind his house. One of the lieutenant told me: "I have to be very careful in giving out tasks to my soldiers, for it often happens that I have underestimated the time it will take to complete, and my soldiers sometimes overwork. The other night I set my men a task which I thought could be completed in a few hours. I forgot all about it until the next day, when I found that the soldiers had worked all night rather than disappoint me in failing to have the work finished in time." The attitude of the Chinese to all this activity is one of dumb astonishment, yet there can be no doubt that the result of all these object lessons will be to launch the Chinese upon a new era in their social, political and moral life, for, slow as the Chinaman is to learn, even he cannot fail to appreciate the wonderful difference which the Japanese have already brought into their village life.

DOGS ARE "ALWAYS" HONEST.
Whole Make-Up of the Animal Gives Ample Testimony to the Fact.
"There is one peculiar thing about dogs," remarked a well known local fencer and huntsman, says the Houston Post, "and that is you never saw one pant and wag his tail at the same time. A dog is not capable of a double emotion. He can't growl and wag his tail at the same time, for it is impossible for him to be mad at one end and glad at the other. "If a dog is glad to see his master he will bark and wag his tail. If he wants to get into the house he will paw at the door, whine and wag his tail, but they are all symptoms of one and the same emotion. But if his master opens the door he will cease to show anxiety immediately by whining, and will show pleasure only by the wagging of his tail. "In order to get a man's temper one must watch his eyes, but for a dog's you have to watch his tail. The dog is likewise incapable of deceit, and hence he is nothing of a politician. He deceives no one, not even his master. If he is overjoyed, every emotion is indicative of that fact, and his whole make-up gives ample testimony to it. If he is displeased or angered, it is the same way."

PLAINT OF COLLEGE GIRL.
Shows the Darker Side of Being a Graduate of Educational Institution.
"You may be thankful," said the Vassar girl to her friend, relates the New York Sun, "that you were never sent to college. My family has made my life miserable ever since I was graduated. No matter what I do or how clever I am, it is all taken as a matter of course. Even when I have an article or poem published they all say: 'Oh, yes, of course, Frances is very bright; but then she has a college education.' "If I don't do anything worth while they all want to know what good my college education has been to me. Now, whatever you do even though it may be all ordinary achievement, they all say: 'Just look at Miss So-and-so; her stories are in every magazine, and yet she never had any special advantages; she never went to college.' "Sometimes I wish all the colleges were at the bottom of the sea. The only thing I learned there that I really enjoy was making fudge. I have a great mind to open a shop for it."

M'CONNELL GETS TEN DAYS AT HARD LABOR

Pleading Guilty of Assaulting Moy John Chinaman—Attorney Dunn Prosecuted.

Stewart McConnell, charged with assaulting Moy John, one of the proprietors of the West Milwaukee street Chinese laundry, was given a sentence of ten days at hard labor in the county jail upon his plea of guilty in municipal court this morning. The case being one of simple assault, the district attorney did not prosecute but Lawyer Charles Dunn appeared for John. The attorney stated in the court that McConnell, pretending to have brought in three collars early last week, told Moy John Friday night that he had lost his check but wanted his laundry. The articles were sought for, but could not be found and McConnell snatched from a "batch" of clean linen that was near the counter three collars and left the place. John followed and said: "Me wantee no fight. Why you take my collars?" McConnell then wheeled and with a blow in the face felled the Chinaman to the ground. When McConnell was given a chance to tell his thoughts he maintained that last Tuesday morning he entrusted the laundry with three shirts and five collars. He said that on being pursued for taking three pieces of neckwear not his own that Moy held upraised a fist and his partner was close behind with a long knife, and the blow which he delivered was not assault but protection from terrible bodily injury. The court with little delay imposed a fine of $5 and costs of $3.85 or ten days in jail at hard labor. The money not being forthcoming, McConnell was committed.

FAIR LUNA TO-HIDE HER FACE TONIGHT

First Contact of the Shadow with the Moon Will Be Observable in Janesville at 8:43 P. M.

For over two hours tonight the moon will be partially obscured by the much heralded eclipse which has been exciting the interest of scientists and astronomers for the past few weeks. If the skies are clear the spectacle will be visible here and throughout North and South America, on the Atlantic ocean, in parts of Europe and Asia, and on the Pacific ocean.

According to the calculations of the astronomers, the moon will pass under the shadow of the earth at 8:43 o'clock this evening, in Janesville's latitude and longitude. The eclipse will be at its greatest at 9:45 o'clock, but at no time will the earth throw a complete shadow over the face of the moon.

The moon will be at its fullest diameter and the magnitude of the eclipse will be 0.292. The first contact of the shadow will be 46 degrees from the moon's limb toward the east, at exactly 8:43 o'clock. The middle will be reached at 9:45, and the moon will leave the shadow at 10:47. The periods will vary at different points through the state. At La Crosse the times have been computed to 8:34, 9:36 and 10:38; at Superior, 8:31, 9:33 and 10:35; and at Milwaukee, 8:47, 9:49, and 10:51.

Janesville people will be given an opportunity of witnessing two eclipses during the next three weeks. The other eclipse that will be visible to residents of this city will be a partial eclipse of the sun Wednesday morning, August 30, which will commence before sunrise and terminate at 6:38. The eclipse of the sun will be total in other parts of the world, but will be only partial in North America.

25,000 BARRELS FOR THE SUGAR CO.

Cooper Shop Commences Work To Meet Demands of Enormous Output Expected.

From twenty to twenty-five thousand barrels will be needed for the anticipated big output at the Rock County Sugar Co.'s plant this fall and winter. Two men are already at work in the cooperage shop and the number will shortly be increased to eight or ten. Unless all present indications are to be discounted there is to be an enormous yield this season. The factory will begin grinding out sugar on October 1 but it is possible that large deliveries of beets will commence long before that time. There are many growers who have made application to deliver as early as Sept. 1. The Sugar Co. has advanced thousands of dollars on the crops for which interest is charged. Efforts are being made to provide for all the switching accommodations that could be reasonably asked for and altogether the company seems disposed to treat the farmers with the utmost consideration.

FINE INDORSEMENT FOR GREEN BAY LINE

Passengers on the "Fannie C. Hart" Sign Voluntary Testimonial Relating to the "Soo" Trip.

The Green Bay Transportation company's steamer Fannie C. Hart arrived in this city shortly after noon yesterday, says the Green Bay Gazette, with the large list of passengers who witnessed the semi-centennial celebration at the "Soo." Although the number of passengers was large enough to tax the capacity of the steamer there was no inconvenience experienced because of overcrowding and the passengers declare the service and menu on the boat was first-class. Because there were so many residents on board the trip was generally referred to as the "Green Bay special."

Evidence that the trip was thoroughly enjoyed by all on board is contained in a sort of "round-robin" signed by every one of the passengers and presented to the management of the line. In this statement the passengers speak in the strongest praise of the delightful features of the trip and the quality of the service.

One of the most enthusiastic of the passengers was E. R. Smith of this city, who made the trip with his wife. Mr. Smith says the stop at Petoskey was one of the most pleasant features of the trip. He says there seemed to be thousands of visitors at this pretty place, which is a mecca for hay fever sufferers.

Mr. Smith says the celebration at the "Soo" was superior to what the excursionists anticipated. The great number of handsomely decorated boats of all sorts was a feature that appealed mostly to the Fannie's passengers. At Mackinac Island the whole party made a tour of the places of interest and most of them had photographs taken in the historic arch rock. A brief visit at Beaver Island brought the excursionists into contact with the native Indians, who were found to be surprisingly hospitable.

JANESVILLE TEAM WON GAME EASILY

It Was Easy for the Local Eagles to Pile Up Score Against Line City Nine.

At Crystal Springs park yesterday afternoon the Janesville Eagles lopped off the wings of the Beloit "birds" in a game of ball with a 15 to 3 score. It was a contest among heavy hitters and the excellent fielding alone kept the score of the local team in the teens. The field work of Foley was the feature of the game, he making several sensational catches while the batting honors were carried off by Dunwiddie and Ruhland, each securing six hits. Dunwiddie batted out two double-batters and four singles and Ruhland, one three-bagger, two doubles and one single. The only home run of the day was made by Freitag of Beloit. Frank Alken, who on account of his injured finger, has not yet been able to get back in the game with the Beloit league nine, very satisfactorily umpired. Score:

Janesville 12 4 0 5 0 3 3—52 24
Beloit 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 1—3 3 4

The return game will be played at Yoc's park Sunday, August 20.

TOM WALSH of COLORADO

A Mining King With Social Aspirations

Born in Poverty, Now a Multi-millionaire—Partner of a Monarch and Lessee of a Newport Mansion as an Entree into the 400

Lavish Entertainer Who Captivated Parisians With Striking Social Functions—Owner of a Sixty Room Palace—Benefactor of Miners

HAVE you heard the latest sensation in high society? It is that the Tom Walshes of Colorado are going to break into the Four Hundred by way of Newport. The word "sensation" is used advisedly. Almost anything Thomas F. Walsh does in a social way is apt to be sensational. The entertainments he gave in Paris in 1900 were so much so that they left all Europe gasping. That is the time Walsh got King Leopold of Belgium on the string.

Commissioner to Paris Exposition.

The story of those entertainments is still told with gusto by the Paris boulevardiers. It appears that after Walsh made his strike in the San Juan country he went to Denver and was snubbed by the high society of Capitol Hill, the region where Denver's swell set most do congregate. Then the Walshes concluded they would strike at the top. An appointment as United States commissioner to the Paris exposition of 1900 gave the opportunity. So Walsh planned his campaign. A more display of wealth would not answer the purpose. To that must be added imagination, novelty, audacity. A Seine boat was chartered and fitted up as never a Seine boat was fitted before. Walsh's motto was that he must have the best of everything regardless of expense. He got it.

After entertaining most everybody on the boat a special train of five pal-out from 10 to 20 per cent was worth knowing. Would Walsh see him? He would. Not only so, but he would entertain him. The function came off at Ritz and was still more dazzling than any that had gone before. Even the czar's own band was brought into requisition. Of course the czar's band never played for private entertainments, but Walsh opined that a judicious use of gold might attract even the fancy of royal musicians, and he had the gold. The band heard the jingle and turned on the harmony. After that Tom Walsh, poor Irish boy, former wheelwright, sewer worker, hotel keeper and miner, and Leopold II, king of all the Belgians, were sworn friends. Walsh had no blue blood, but he had yellow money, and the colors seem interchangeable. Leopold had some mines up the Congo that he wanted the American to look after. He also had a little money to invest, and 10 to 20 per cent looked good to him, so he and Walsh entered into a sort of partnership. Now let the Denver nabobs turn up their noses. The man who can hobnob with royalty needs none of them.

The Walshes did more entertaining in Paris. It was estimated, in fact, that they spent half a million at it. Before leaving they took the entire first floor of the Blysee Palace hotel to give a blowout to their friends. They said that they had aimed to entertain all the Americans in Paris, and Walsh usually does not fall short of his aims.

begin, while a boy in Ireland. It was continued while he was prospecting in the Black Hills and while keeping hotel in Leadville. It was that gold would be found in the tops of the ranges. He reasoned that volcanic action had pushed the veins out through the world's roof, as it were. Other mining men laughed at the idea, but Walsh was not the sort of man to be deterred by jeers. The result was that he went to the top of the San Juan mountains, in a place considered exceedingly dangerous because of snowslides, and there located and secured a vein over six miles long, making one of the richest single mines in the world.

"Grubstaker" of Miners.

He had another theory. It was that human nature can be trusted; that men have more good than bad in them. This caused him to "grubstake" miners, as it is called—that is, furnish them what supplies they needed and trust them until they "struck it rich." It also caused him to let men who were out of money have board and lodging free at his "Grand Central hotel" in the roaring, rushing days of early Leadville. It also caused him to treat his employees like human beings, to build a fine hotel on his mining property for them, where, instead of the tough fare usually received by gold miners, they could have clean, light and steam heated rooms, porcelain baths, good cooking, a library and reading room and other of the conveniences of civilized life, likewise to pay them good wages and to give them the eight hour day when the law did not require it.

This feeling for men extends even to animals. About his mine is posted a notice warning all against the killing of birds and harmless beasts. Any employee found guilty of this offense is instantly discharged. Mr. Walsh is very fond of the little camp birds. In fact, his chief property is called the Camp Bird mine.

Mr. Walsh was born in Tipperary, Ireland, in 1851. He was educated in the common schools and was apprenticed early as a wheelwright, to which fact he ascribes much of his knowledge of mining machinery in later life. At the age of nineteen he came to America, first working on a sewer contract at Worcester, Mass. Then he went to the Black Hills, in South Dakota, and made a small stake in a gold mine, after which he found his way to Leadville, Colo., when that was said to be the wickedest and widest open town in the world. Here he married Miss Carrie B. Read, a poor girl from southern Wisconsin. It was a love match. Mrs. Walsh is quite as kindly and hospitable an entertainer as her husband. A few years ago she dazzled Washington by the fine array of gowns she brought home from Paris. They were voted the swiftest ever seen in the capital. She had a photographer at the house one whole day and was photographed in each of the costumes in turn. The photographer's bill alone was $700. She is noted for her ability in capturing all the social lions of the season and parading them at her functions.

Well Read, Bright and Interesting.

It must not be imagined from all of the foregoing that the Walshes lack culture. While largely self educated, both are well read, keen, bright and interesting. Money alone would not have won the successes they have enjoyed. They simply are at home in the sort of life they live. They have open handed hospitality of the western sort. Tom Walsh himself is unostentatious, a shrewd, kindly Irishman who likes people and has a head for business. One of the features of his Washington house is a fine Italian garden, and in his home the artistic element is much in evidence.

They are picturesque and interesting specimens of a sort of life that America has developed. They should feel at home in the Four Hundred. Why not? If they like that sort of thing, there is no reason why it should not like them. They will be quite as ornamental to the smart set perhaps as those who got their money from their grandfathers. Thomas F. Walsh has ideas, very vital ones, too, and that is much. Besides, he has imagination and quite a stock of native human good will. He sees the possibilities of the west, both in agriculture and mining. He says that the mountains have only been scratched; that they are still full of precious ores. As Babylon was made by irrigation, he believes that a great empire will spring up under the same magic spell. In his way he has helped to prove his faith by works.

These things may not recommend him to the smart set, it is true, but he also has all sorts of money, and that will.

EDISON'S NEW BATTERY

Powers of His Invention Described by the Wizard.

CAN PROPEL A TWO TON TRUCK.

Single Charge Will Drive an Ordinary Automobile a Hundred Miles. Recharging Problem For Touring Vessels Not Yet Solved—Big Factory to Be Built.

Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, announced recently at his home, in Orange, N. J., that after two years of experimenting he is finally satisfied with the merits of his new storage battery and that he will at once begin the erection of a factory to manufacture the cells on a large scale for the trade, says the New York World. This is the latest, and, while not the greatest of the wizard's many inventions, it is an accomplishment for which many electricians have been striving many years.

The cell as now perfected will drive a two ton truck at a rate of thirty-three miles an hour, with half the weight of the old method.

A small dealer can operate a delivery wagon with its power at 58 per cent of the cost of maintaining a horse. An ordinary automobile will run 100 miles under ordinary conditions without recharging. Under the most favorable conditions 150 miles can be covered at a speed of twenty miles an hour.

More than these facts have been claimed for the cell by others, but it was not until the other day that Mr. Edison himself would even speculate as to the possibilities of his new invention. The wizard has experimented with 14,000 cells to perfect one.

The storage cell is small and increased in iron. Instead of containing the old lead plates of the original battery, it contains alternate plates of iron and nickel in a potash lye solution.

"The troubles in the battery I have been trying for two years to remedy have been purely mechanical," said Mr. Edison. "They have been greatly due to the swelling of the nickel element. I have succeeded in reducing the weight of the battery from forty to forty-five pounds per horse power. It has taken time to find out what was needed for this battery, because we cannot look ahead and see just what such a thing is going to do after we have it sketched on paper. In the two years I have been experimenting we have turned out some 14,000 cells of the battery and have operated 100 auto vehicles."

"I do not pretend to have solved the problem for touring vehicles. That can only be possible when more charging stations are spread about the country. Young Cooper Hewitt of New York has helped solve that problem with his mercury rectifier, which takes the place of the old transformer and makes it possible to convert the alternating currents used in small towns so as to make them available for charging the batteries."

"With proper motor and wagon equipment we can take our cells and operate an ordinary delivery wagon for 58 per cent of the cost of maintaining a horse."

Mr. Edison appeared to be in better physical condition than he has been for a long time. His face is full and he has a better color. He said that the trouble with his stomach, from which he has been suffering for several years, is greatly improved. Mr. Edison attributes the improvement to constant riding in his big steam automobile. The wizard likes outdoor life, and after giving out his statement he said: "What I want now is a chance to get out in the woods and see the birds and flowers. I like to study them and the rocks and ferns and other things of the woods. It rests me after a long campaign like this."

Murder Bureau For Chicago.

John M. Collins, chief of police at Chicago, has announced that in a few days he will establish a murder bureau under the direction of Assistant Chief Schuetzler. The assistant chief will have on his staff eight of the best detectives in the city and will work in harmony with the state attorney's office, says a Chicago dispatch. The object of the innovation is the gathering of evidence. As soon as a murder or any other big crime is committed the "runners" from Schuetzler's office will go to the scene with a photographer and an artist or a draftsman. Every bit of tangible evidence will be picked up, tabulated and used by the detectives in working up the case.

Perhaps the most unusual way of delivering mails is that adopted for one of the islands of the Tonga group in the Pacific, where the danger of approaching inshore renders it necessary for the mail steamer to use a sky-rocket as a postman.

La Mode Artistique.

What the Parisian milliners term a chapeau de fantaisie is well expressed in this artistic and strikingly original hat. The shape itself is one of those flexible chip straws with low drum crown and broad brim, the same size all around. Wiring disposes of the extra size of this into artistic folds, and two extra long plumes are wound in careless, fashion both over and under the brim. A splashing bow of white satin ribbon is posed fast upon the crown, the many loops and ends spreading out in all directions.

Go via Rock Island System and stop off in Colorado—visit Salt Lake City—Yellowstone National Park—and California. Round-trip rate from Chicago $56.50; from St. Louis $52.50, going and returning direct; slightly more to go via California in one direction. Cheap rates for side rides to every nearby point of attraction. Very low to Alaska also.

Saw the Bait, but Did Not Bite.

These unique and striking devices hit the mark. Here was something new even to the blasé Parisians. Not only so, but the European capitalists and promoters saw a chance. A man who had money to burn like that must be a good thing. Walsh suddenly became the recipient of unexpected attentions. Everybody who had a company to float tried to interest the American capitalist. Among others was King Leopold. Now, the ruler of Belgium is something of a character himself. He has whiskers that make him look like a prophet, but the resemblance ends there. He has the soul of a bon vivant. In other words, he is a high roller, one of the "old boys." He is likewise something of a captain of industry. Having heavy interests in a sleeping car company that was somewhat tottery on its legs, Leopold sent his agents to interest Walsh. The American saw the bait, but did not bite. He found that the sleeping car concern earned only about 3 per cent on the investment. Why should he go into that scheme when his own money was bringing him from 10 to 20 per cent? The agents took the bait, but he was still more interested. A man who could squeeze

Journalist, Etc.

"I see," said Armstrong thoughtfully. Then, as he fell into a meditation, there was silence between them for some time. The theme of his reflection was the accomplishment of the task which lay before him. Here seemed a heaven sent opportunity to win peacefully to Oxford and perhaps to return as far north as Carlisle.

Armstrong remembered that luck had often stood his friend, and the

"I shall first give the rogue a taste of his own surgery," cried Armstrong, drawing his blade.

But the other restrained his ardor, leaning heavily upon him.

"It is her father. Do not leave me; I faint. If I—I cannot direct you, take me down the lane, the highroad. My home—the house to the right."

The victim collapsed in a heap on the present encounter looked like another instance of it, so he resolved to journey with Wentworth as far south as Manchester, there to be guided by circumstances. Up to that point he need ask for no favor, for he had his own permit to lean upon. If the lad proved a true companion he might then venture to propose that they should keep together under protection of the pass for two.

"Do you move on to Oxford at once when you have seen this young lady?" asked Armstrong, breaking silence at last.

"Yes, and am willing to ride as hard as you like if you are pressed for time."

"Oh, I'm in no hurry. He's a churl who would not wait while a lover and his lass whispered, and I shall do aught that I can to forward your adventure if there is any obstacle."

"I thank you, but there is like to be no obstacle at this time of the day. I hope to have the good fortune to find her walking in the garden. This would simplify my quest."

"Are you forbidden the house, then?"

"In a measure I am. I have my enemies within the walls, but my good friends also. If I got a word with one of the latter, difficulties will dissolve."

Here the youth reined in his horse and sat for a moment anxiously scanning the landscape. A belt of tall trees bordered the lane, with thick undergrowth that seemed impenetrable to sight or movement. Over the tops of the bushes and between the trunks of the trees Armstrong gathered glimpses of a large mansion in the distance, extensive groups of chimneys being the most noticeable feature. Nearer was seen a carpet of green lawn, and beyond, the dappled glitter of the sunlight on a lake.

"Will you hold my horse?" asked the youth, almost in a whisper. "I must reconnoiter."

Armstrong sat silent, occasionally leaning over to stroke the neck of the steed he held in tether. He loved all animals, especially horses, and they reciprocated his affection. Suddenly the silence was shattered by a cry hoarse with rage.

"I have been watching your approach, perfidious scoundrel! You shall not escape me this time."

"Sir, sir, I beseech you," came the entreating tones of Wentworth. "I cannot bear arms against you. Listen but a moment, sir."

"Draw, you dog, or die the death of one."

"Sir, I implore you; I cannot draw with you opposed. Sir, let me say a word—Oh!"

There was one clash of steel, then a brief cry of pain, and now silence again, all so quickly accomplished that first word and last were uttered in the time during which Armstrong leaped from saddle to earth. He searched hurriedly for the leafy tunnel through which Wentworth had passed, but before he found it the lad staggered into sight again, his left hand grasping his breast, his right dragging the sword, his face pale as chalk.

"He has killed me," he gasped.

"Nonsense! You would not now be on your feet if the wound were mortal. Who is your assailant?"

"No matter for that. Help me home!"

sward, reddening the grass with his blood.

Armstrong was no stranger to the rough art of the leech. He undid the doublet and flung it open; tore away the waistcoat and shirt, disclosing an ebbing gush.

"Well pierced," he muttered. "An inch to the right would have done the job. The poor chap parried, but not enough; the onslaught was too fierce and sudden. The old man's intention was good, but the deflection marred the thrust."

He stanchd the wound with the torn shirt and tied a sash tightly round the body. Taking a leather flask from his pouch, he forced some fluid between the gray lips, and Wentworth, with a long sigh, opened his eyes.

"It's nothing to boast of," said Armstrong, carelessly. "I have ridden twenty miles worse mangled. Can you sit your horse if I put you on him?"

"O God! O God!" moaned the youth, near to weeping. "Fool that I was to risk all for the chance of a word!"

"Tut, there's no risk. You'll be right as Edinburgh in three weeks."

"Three weeks! Oh, my God! Would he had killed me outright!"

"What is troubling you? Anything in which I can help? I see you are no coward, and it is not alone the wound that hurts. Is it this Oxford journey?"

The prone invalid made no reply, but, groaning, turned his face to the turf.

"Hark!" cried Armstrong earnestly. "Although our acquaintance is of the shortest, I would dearly love to do you a service. I will go to Oxford for you and do there whatever you wish done."

The speaker reddened as he said this, and his conscience reproved him for thus making use of the other's infirmity, although he maintained stoutly to himself that he was honest in his proclamation.

The stricken youth was no less troubled in mind than in body, feeling himself a treacherous wretch, accidentally well punished; but he, too, inwardly braced his weakening purpose by the thought that he acted for the good of his country, an action tending toward the speedy return of peace.

"Help me to my horse," he pleaded, ignoring the proffer just made to him. "I must get home and learn whether this hurt is serious or not."

"It is far from serious. I tell you, and it means only a month's idleness. Lean you on me. There; make no exertion. I will lift you to your saddle."

The powerful Scot raised him as if he were a child and, with a woman's tenderness, set him gently on his horse. He got into his own seat so promptly that his steady hand was on his comrade's shoulder before the swaying body could do more than threaten a fall.

"This way, you say?"

Wentworth nodded wearily, and the two set out slowly for the highroad. Despite their awkward going, the eddies they sought were soon in sight, situated in a park, to which a winding lane led from the main thoroughfare. The place seemed deserted, and as they neared it Wentworth showed a faint anxiety that he might reach his room unobserved.

"My sister must be told, of course, and a doctor brought, but I wish to avoid a rabble of gossiping servants if I can."

"I will carry you wherever you direct, and if we meet any one we must enjoin silence. Can you indicate the position of a private door through which we may enter?"

"The most private door is the most public door. The front entrance will likely be deserted. I would walk but that we must hurry or be seen. Take me up the stair and to the second room on your right. That is always ready for me."

The Scot took the youth again in his arms and speedily laid him on his own bed. The jolting, despite the care taken, had shifted the rude bandage, and the wound bled afresh. Armstrong, anxious for the safety of his burden, had not noticed that his own doublet was smeared with blood. With the better appliances now at hand, he did what was immediately necessary and revived the lad's ebbing strength with a second draft from the leather bottle. A sound of singing came to them as he finished his ministrations.

"That is Frances, my sister," breathed Wentworth, with closed eyes. "Break it gently to her and say I am not dangerously hurt. She will know what to do."

HYPNOTIC REFORMING.

Denver Judge to Try Novel Method on Young Offenders.

Hypnotism as a means of reforming boys and girls is to be tested in the juvenile court by Judge Benjamin B. Lindsey of Denver, one of the pioneers in juvenile court work. Judge Lindsey is taking lessons of a professional hypnotist and for years has been a theoretical student of hypnotism, says a Denver dispatch.

The first actual test will be made at the September term of court. A boy addicted to smoking cigarettes will probably be the first subject, as Judge Lindsey wishes to demonstrate his ability to assuage physical cravings as well as bring about a mere mental reformation. Judge Lindsey recently returned from the convention of charities and corrections, where he met many phrenologists, most of whom advised him to attempt hypnotic experiments in the juvenile court.

"My intention is," said Judge Lindsey, "to practice so that I may become proficient. I have long believed in the influence of mind over matter, not that I am inclined to Christian Science beliefs, but merely that study has convinced me that mind is greater than matter and has a correspondingly greater influence. A weak-minded person is led—does not lead others himself—and, though he may have no bad tendencies, will become bad just because somebody who is evil minded wills that this shall be."

"My dealings with children have shown me how true this is. For instance, there are some boys to whom cigarette smoke is decidedly offensive. But the other boys who smoke tell these they will never be, mainly unless they learn to smoke. In this manner boys are led into the most injurious practice known to modern science not through inclination, merely through influence."

"Now, if this is true, as it undoubtedly is, why should it not be possible for some one to use this influence in precisely the opposite direction? This was the question which set me to thinking, and the more I thought of it the more convinced I was that hypnotism if rightly used might be made a power for good. Experts say the drink habit, cigarette habit and gambling habit are all amenable to hypnotic suggestion. Why should not the bad habit prove equally amenable?"

The child will be placed in a high-backed chair opposite Judge Lindsey, with each of his hands in one of the hypnotist's hands and their knees and feet in contact. The subject will then be stared into a state of sleep, which will last from ten to fifteen minutes. During this time the operator will try to impress his thoughts on the mind of the child. The thoughts will be: "It is injurious for you to do thus and so, and therefore you must not do it. You do not care to do it, anyway."

Pfister, which he calls an outrage. Mr. Berger says he would rather trust his pocketbook in Pfister's hands than in the hands of the men in the district attorney's office. "The followers of Governor La Follette," says Mr. Berger, "are by instinct, make-up and past history as wicked a set of grafters as their stalwart brethren ever dared to be. ## TRAINMAN'S BLUNDER COST TWELVE LIVES

Carelessness of Freight Crew Is Blamed for Head-On Collision at Lorain, Ohio.

Lorain, O., Aug. 14.—Twelve lives were sacrificed by a trainman's blunder in a head-on collision of a Nickel Plate passenger train and a freight at Kishman's switch, on the shore of Lake Erie, near Vermilion, early Sunday morning.

About twenty-five passengers, the majority of them Italian laborers, were injured.

The engineer and fireman of the freight train saved themselves by jumping.

The engine crew of the freight is said to have delayed their train carelessly. The engine of the passenger, running fifty miles an hour, plowed through the boiler of the freight engine and the crash broke coaches into splinters and snapped and twisted heavy steel.

Thirty-nine Italian laborers, pockets jingling with money after a pay night, and singing and chatting in anticipation of their return to the fatherland but a few weeks hence, were riding in the smoker of the passenger. The impact sent the car in the rear of the smoker halfway through it, and nine of the thirty-nine were crushed to death.

Engineer Sticks to Post.

When the crash came C. W. Poole, of Conneaut, a veteran in the service of the Nickel Plate, remained at his post after a warning cry of his fireman told him that he could jump and save his life. The crash caught Poole in the engine cab, and the bleeding and dying man hung there for many long minutes before he could be released.

Joseph Alexander, of Jersey City, who has been roaming about the country evading United States navy representatives, was killed. Alexander was proved a deserter by a letter found in his pocket.

General Superintendent A. W. Johnson, of the Nickel Plate, issued the following statement:

"From what we have learned up to the present time, the cause of the accident is the failure of the freight train to clear the main track. The blame rests, therefore, entirely upon the crew of this train. They should have had that train in there at least five minutes before the time the passenger train arrived."

"As the freight train obscured the switch lamps, the passenger crew, of course, could not tell whether the light was red or white. We have learned of no reason, as yet, as to just why the train crew did not have the main track clear."

Freight Did Not Take Siding.

The freight train ordered to take the Kishman siding did not stop at the opening, but proceeded for some unexplained reason for the length of a hundred cars down the main track.

The scene at the wreck was a fearful one. Screams of "Holy Mary" from the injured and frightened Italians almost overcame the noise from crackling wood and escaping steam.

The two day coaches were telescoped. Death came almost instantly to the passengers sitting in the rear of the smoker. The mangled bodies of the foreigners were crushed beneath the twisted iron and the timber of the side of the coaches.

Farmers from the immediate neighborhood came to the aid of the trainmen and passengers. The passengers in the three Pullmans were only stunned by the shock. They hurriedly dressed and in scanty attire helped take out the bodies of the dead and rescue the injured in the front coaches.

The bodies of the dead Italians were pulled through the windows of the wrecked smoker. One of the cars, but slightly damaged, was converted into a morgue and ten bodies were held until the arrival of the coroner.

NORWEGIANS VOTE FOR DISSOLUTION

Plebiscite Is Almost Unanimous in Favor of Separate Government,
Monarchical in Form.

Christiania, Aug. 14.—The Norwegian people in a referendum taken Sunday pronounced in favor of the dissolution of the union with Sweden with remarkable though not unexpected unanimity. Of 450,000 voters 320,000 cast ballots.

The returns show that about one person in 3,000 voted against the dissolution. The difference between the total number of voters and the number of votes cast is attributable to absences, such as sailors abroad and others who are out of the country at present.

The weather was favorable and there were scenes of the greatest enthusiasm everywhere. Thousands of women who did not have the right of franchise signed petitions in the streets endorsing the dissolution. In Christiania and other cities the total population turned out, everyone wearing long streamers of the national colors and pictures of Premier Michelsen.

One of the members of the cabinet said:

"The result surpasses the most sanguine expectations. The next official steps will be taken after the storting meets on Aug. 21, when the result of the plebiscite will be communicated to Sweden through the Swedish cabinet and the rigsdag. The storting will repeat the request that the rigsdag declare the rikssakt inoperative and the union dissolved. The storting will also express a willingness to negotiate concerning the details of the dissolution. It is the earnest desire of Norway to conclude the dissolution amicably. Norway will never retract, but everything will be done to meet the wishes of Sweden in other directions.

"If peace depends upon abolishing the forts they will be abolished. Norway must remain a monarchy; the people do not desire a republic."

Reports from 176 places showed a vote of 95,935 for and 27 against dissolution.

3,000,000 American Flags Annually.

Patriotism has become the basis of a great American industry. Because of the amazing increase of patriotic sentiment in this country during the last decade the manufacture of American flags has quadrupled. More than 3,000,000 Star Spangled Banners annually are made of silk and bunting, but these form only a small portion of the total number of United States flags that are born that live and die between January and January. In remote farming districts where ten years ago the national colors were rarely seen, every suitable occasion witnesses a flag display. The flag has been added to the household goods from Maine to California and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian line.—Pearson's Magazine.

My eye fastens eagerly on a dozen articles. I look them over one by one. All made in U. S. A.—London News.

Incubus of Personality.

The detestable habit of talking of people rather than things opens the way to abuses we might check with a word if we would. If the art of conversation were taught and encouraged as it should be, were we as far advanced in civilization as we believe ourselves, we should get rid of the incubus of personality, and with it of a great deal of undeserved obloquy, and the burrowing destruction of small treacheresses and unnoted dishonor.

Flays Our Wrestlers.

Hackenschmidt, "Russian Lion," Says Americans
"Fake" Matches.

Georges Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion," was not favorably impressed by the ability of American wrestlers on his visit here. In a recent interview in London he says some unpleasant things about them. "Hack" has resumed his tour of the music halls and is throwing from three to six men nightly.

"One thing that I could not understand about America," said "Hack," "was the faking methods of some of the wrestlers. Wherever I went to seek a match I was confronted by a lot of schemers, who made all sorts of unspontaneous propositions to me. When they saw that I was not a filder they avoided me and began to say unkind things about me. I guess I became unpopular with some of them, but I don't mind this as long as I have the better element on my side."

Hackenschmidt, who has created such a furor in the wrestling world and who has thrown the best and strongest athletes who have been pitted against him in England and America, is not invincible, contrary to the general public opinion as expressed after his easy victory over Tom Jenkins, the American champion.

In the fall of 1901, shortly after Hackenschmidt's first appearance on the mat, he went to Berlin and challenged all comers to meet him in competition on the mat at the Greco-Roman style. Among the first to reply to this challenge by coming over the ropes was a young German officer, Baron Hans von Lieber, lieutenant in the Gardes des Corps, a regiment of the army stationed at Potsdam, near Berlin, where the Imperial palace is located.

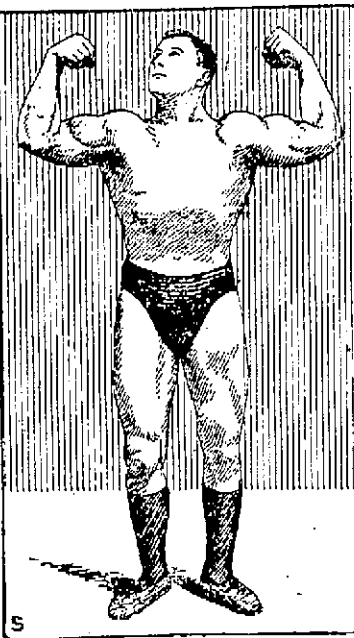

Von Lieber, who is a perfect giant of about 230 pounds in weight, outweighing Hackenschmidt by nearly twenty pounds, had but little difficulty in disposing of the man whose very name is now a terror to English and American wrestlers.

Von Lieber is not the only European wrestler who has given Hackenschmidt trouble. Peterson, the Danish champion, a giant weighing 220 pounds, wrestled a draw with the "Russian Lion" in 1900, the year when the latter entered upon his career as a wrestler.

For two hours the two men tossed and tumbled over the mat, striving for the hold which would pin the other's shoulders to the mat and wrest victory from him. At the end of that time neither had scored a fall and neither would give up.

The referee was compelled to call it a draw and stop the match. The two have never met since, which is perhaps wise for Hackenschmidt, who may well fear losing his world's championship title at the hands of such a man.

Hackenschmidt, notwithstanding his title of "Russian Lion," is a German by birth, having been born in Koenigsberg, in Pomeranian Germany. The Pomeranians are noted as practically the only one of the Teutonic nations which retain in its entire purity the Teutonic strain of blood. They are giants in stature, averaging five feet eight inches in height and ranging up to over six feet. They are double jointed, have large boned frames, and their feet are seldom under nine in size. Bismarck, the great German dictator, who was a giant of over six feet in height, was a Pomeranian, as is also Eugene Sandow, the world's champion strong man. In this section of the country wrestlers are very numerous. The gigantic stature of the men, the compulsory military and physical training in the turner schools and gymnasiums and the simple lives led by them fit them for this strenuous game as perhaps no other training would. They are a nation of wrestlers, and the average man among them could meet the best men of other nations and make a good showing against them.

Included in that German contingent are also numbers of wrestlers of other nationalities who have made Germany their home and are regarded as Germans.

Among them are Petroff, a wrestler from German Poland, who weighs over 230 pounds; Nitsbke, a wrestler of Berlin, weighing 210 pounds, who holds the German record for dumbbell lifting; Zbysko, the "colossal Pole," who weighs 200 pounds, all of which is solid, muscular flesh; Romanoff, a Russian of 225 pounds in weight, who defeated Paul Pons, the French champion, and also defeated Peterson, the Danish champion, at Copenhagen.

HEIGHT OF MOUNT WHITNEY.

United States Surveyors Make Its True Altitude 14,502 Feet.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—A party of United States geological survey level men under Topographer R. A. Farmer, which has been running a line of levels to the summit of Mount Whitney, have completed their work and found the true height of the mountain to be 14,502 feet. While this shows Mount Whitney to be the highest measured mountain in the United States, it makes the true height twenty feet less than the figures that have generally been accepted.

We Don't Hunt Rabbits With Battleships

Nor attack forts with pistols—not because we could not kill rabbits with a 12-inch gun, for we could; and not because we could not take a fort with pistols, for that is conceivable—but because we try to fit our means to our purposes—and in these instances we would have rather conspicuous misfits.

In advertising we don't use a page of space to secure a furnished room—nor an inch of space to fill a store with customers—not because the page ad. would not secure a furnished room, for it would; and not because an inch of space could not draw a store-full of customers, for that is conceivable—if we offered gold pieces to all comers: but because we try to use publicity in a rational way.

A merchant would not expect to lease or build a big store-building as cheaply as a small one; but it sometimes happens that he imagines he can keep the big store full of buyers with the same expenditure for publicity as he would make for the smaller store. Nobody knows just why the merchant is ever seized with this aberration—but unless he quickly throws it off he finds himself "taking the count," with the sheriff holding the watch.

To fill a big store, every business day, with buyers, is the same problem as that of filling the little store, or the any-size store; the solution, in any case, being "adequate (sufficient) publicity," and, incidentally, no store ever had this—and charm of store-keeping is partly in the fact that no one has yet sounded its possibilities—as no store has been advertised as fully and persistently and aggressively and enthusiastically as it might have been.
